

About Higher Education Forum (HEF)

Higher Education Forum (HEF) is promoted as an advocacy group of individuals concerned with issues and challenges in the landscape of higher education in India. The individuals include representatives from all stakeholders of higher education including academicians and corporate. The sole objective of the forum is to help creation of a world class higher education system in India. This encompasses creation of appropriate structure, strategies, policies, processes and development of institutions.

The forum was launched as an asynchronous learning forum through a Google group in the late 2009, and today has emerged as one of the largest such on-line communities of higher education professionals with more than 4,000 members.

The forum is also registered as a Public Charitable Trust. Besides Head Quarters at Navi Mumbai, the forum operates through branches at Pune, Gujarat, Kolkata, and Bengaluru.

The Event

Current times are disruptive in terms both theories & paradigms as well as practical applications. Supersonic speed of technology is adding to the velocity of the process of disruption. What was relevant yesterday is definitely not applicable today; but no one knows what will be relevant tomorrow. Building the narrative for future is extremely difficult.

In this context of volatile and unpredictable environment, the higher educational Institutions (HEIs) are facing tremendous challenges. Since the skills and competencies of tomorrow are totally unpredictable, educational institutions are fast losing their relevance in terms of being contemporary and relevant. No doubt, the educational institutions are expected to create men and women with character; but they are also equally vested with the responsibility of creating men and women who can shoulder responsibilities of this unpredictable world in whatever positions they are in.

This is the background the current theme of the 2nd Bengaluru conference is titled as “Management and Leadership in Disruptive Times”.

The conference will look into specifically the role of the higher educational institutions to create the leaders and managers who would be able to shoulder responsibilities in these disruptive times. It will also discuss various strategies and processes the HEIs should adopt to remain relevant in this fast changing world.
